Going Green on Your Next Building

SABRINA COMBS
Recycling & Public Services Projects Administrator for City of Bothell

Usually when you see me at an event I am promoting recycling or composting more. But, I wanted to share some new information with you today regarding Green Building and the tools available to you.

The King County Green Building website at http://your.kingcounty.gov/solidwaste/greenbuilding/county-green-building.asp provides links to information and fun ways to learn about how you can use green building tools for your next building or remodeling project. One fun tool it offers is the Eco-Cribz episodes where you can watch homeowners practice Green Remodeling techniques in their own home projects. It's a cross between "MTV Cribs" and "Extreme Makeover: Home Edition".

Whether you're a builder or a home owner wanting to be Greener in the choices you make with your next project; the tools on these pages may provide you with a new opportunity to reduce your impact to the environment by reducing the materials you resource for your project.

For more information or to request a Green Building Kit, log on to the City of Bothell website at www.ci.bothell.wa.us and search "Green Build Kit" or email Recycle Bothell at recyclebothell@ci.bothell.wa.us to request one.
