Re: 2011 Temporary Water Use Authorization Nos. S1-28267 and S1-28272

Dear Ms. Stangell:

The Department of Ecology (Ecology) is in receipt of your applications and request for temporary use of surface water. The water is to be used to fill a tank truck for vegetation control on commercial forest property through October 31, 2011. The source of the diversions will be Tokul Creek under application No. S1-28267, and Calligan Creek under application No. S1-28272.

- For rivers where instream flows have been established, water right authorizations are conditioned by instream flows. This means the right to use water can legally be interrupted if stream flows drop below a specific level. Because flows change daily, it is up to the applicant to check the gauges in the sources indicated and be responsible for the termination of watering when the flows are not being met.
- These rules apply to surface waters within the Snohomish River Basin. See Chapter 173-507 WAC, instream resources protection program, water resources inventory area (WRIA) 7.

The gage number for the Tokul Creek diversion is 12149000. The gage number for the Calligan Creek diversion is 12144500.

Ecology authorizes the diversion of .223 cfs. The total maximum gallons per day shall not exceed 5000 gallons per day.

Nothing in this temporary water use authorization allows for its holder to impair existing water rights.

Water use authorization begins upon receipt of this letter and will continue through October 31, 2011. SA112 shall record how much water is used at each site and will notify Ecology if any of these projects have ended prematurely, been delayed, or have been completed. Each project site should use procedures to eliminate any waste of water.
