

Adding skills to the tool belt that have an immediate impact!

1 day seminar Friday, Jan 27th 2012 @ Kennewick PD

Street Intelligence for Patrol

Developed specifically for first responders, this one-day seminar focuses on enhancing "operational and strategic" awareness...a skill set that every patrol officer needs in order to more effectively deal with today's police problems and evolving street crime. This class examines intelligence-based methods for recognizing characteristics of criminal behavior, typology and the inherent nexus of certain crimes, thereby enabling officers to more readily understand the subtle signs of cloaked, developing or evolving criminal activity.

Recognize factors of criminality that others commonly overlook. Gain the capability to more readily "connect the dots!"

Attendees will additionally be introduced to "street" research techniques (similar to those used by today's criminal intelligence specialists), and a number of online resources that will provide a quick and efficient grasp of the more complex crime issues of the day.

"If knowledge is power," then this seminar is the vehicle to increase awareness and enhance the capacity to excel on the streets. Realistic and instantly applicable!

Who should attend: The curriculum has been created specifically to meet the needs of first responders. All patrol personnel and supervisors are encouraged to enroll.
