

Course Title: Addressing Crime in Virtual Worlds & Online Gaming Worlds

**The training is open to LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS, PROBATION OFFICERS, and PAROLE OFFICERS from LOCAL and STATE AGENCIES**

Drakontas and Drexel University have been awarded a grant by the U.S. Department of Justice, Bureau of Justice Assistance to develop and deliver FREE, one-day training courses to help law enforcement personnel identify, investigate, and prevent crimes involving virtual worlds and online video game worlds.

Date: Tuesday, June 12, 2012
Time: 8:30 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. PT
Cost: FREE. Open to qualified State and local law enforcement personnel
Location: Vancouver Police Department (West Precinct)
Community Room
2800 Northeast Stapleton Road
Vancouver, WA 98661

Note: Attendees must bring their own laptop (Mac or Windows) to this training session. The laptop must have a Wi-Fi connection and a PDF reader (i.e., Adobe Acrobat, for example).

Using lectures and interactive case studies, we will cover the following topics:

- * Economies and Embedded Communications Capabilities within Virtual & Online Gaming Worlds
- * Types of Crimes committed in Virtual & Online Gaming Worlds
- * Sources of Evidence Pertaining to Crimes Occurring in Virtual Worlds and Online Video Game Worlds
- * Techniques for Seizing Popular Video Game Console and Portable Gaming Hardware
- * Tools and Techniques for Investigating Crimes in Virtual Worlds and Online Video Game Worlds
- * Legal Considerations and Procedures when Investigating Crime in Virtual Worlds and Online Video Game Worlds

Note: The training is open to LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS, PROBATION OFFICERS, and PAROLE OFFICERS from LOCAL and STATE AGENCIES. Federal law enforcement officers who are interested in taking the class should send an inquiry to training@drakontas.com. We are looking into other avenues to offer the class to Federal law enforcement officers.

To Register: go to <http://www.drakontas.com/training>

**Note: Per BJA Guidelines, no food or beverages will be provided at this training. Lunch will be on your own. The individual or the individual's agency will be responsible for all travel, lodging and incidental costs incurred to attend this training session.*