Course Intended For:

All public safety instructors or those who want to experience new things with their computer!

Course Content:

In an action packed 24 hours, Jim will explore what makes instructors great through effective planning, preparation, and presentation. We will dive right into working with your computer and unlocking your potential!

- Download, edit, and manipulate video as well as make your own training videos.
- Use Microsoft Word and create professional and personalized handouts.
- Move on to PowerPoint and use it in a way very few have done before, by designing interactive learning activities for student success.
- Top it off with project sharing with other students, and tutorials from Jim on everything done in class.

Don't miss this exciting opportunity! Students must bring a laptop computer with Microsoft Word/PowerPoint

Instructor:

Jim Gordon is a 17 year municipal law enforcement veteran after receiving an Honorable discharge after six years with the United States Coast Guard. Jim has been assigned as a patrol officer, sergeant, watch commander, and lieutenant before his assignment as commanding officer of the regional law enforcement academy program.

Jim has successfully trained hundreds of new officers and continues to teach Nationally with International Association of Directors of Law Enforcement Standards and Training, and throughout California as part of the Instructor Development Institute, teaching mainly instructional technology. Jim completed the California POST Master Instructor program and earned his Bachelor of Science degree from CSU Long Beach. Jim completed a certification program with CSU East Bay in Online Training and Learning, and has developed blended learning courses for advanced officer training programs.
