This interactive course is designed to enhance the skills of professional field trainers while incorporating supervisors of all levels into their position of oversight or supervision of a program.

This is accomplished through dual methods of training occurring simultaneously. The course covers training and evaluation techniques, personalities, learning styles, ethics, instruction methods, leadership styles, mentoring, program and policy development, case law trends, and documentation requirements. Practical exercises refine the participants understanding of their importance in the field-training program.

This course is not centered on the mechanics of a particular program. Regardless of your FTO program; this course is highly beneficial for your FTO's and Administrators by refining their understanding of the awesome responsibility of their roles.

We are often called upon to change the mindset of FTO's from “critiquers” to “facilitators”. Create a multi-faceted trainer capable of developing trainees into successful, confident officers.

We are very accomplished in doing just that!

Wanting to make changes to your program? Design a new one?

You will find this course very beneficial!
