Dick Fairburn has more than 30 years of law enforcement experience in both Illinois and Wyoming, working patrol, investigations and administrative assignments. Dick has also served as a Criminal Intelligence Analyst and as the Section Chief of a major academy's Firearms Training Unit and Critical Incident training program. He has a B.S. in Law Enforcement Administration from Western Illinois University and was the Valedictorian of his recruit class at the Illinois State Police Academy. He has published more than 100 feature articles and two books: Police Rifles and Building a Better Gunfighter.

In this seminar you will learn the lessons that come from more than three decades of research, and the analysis of more than 200 gunfights:

- Why police officers routinely "miss" with 75 % of their rounds during a gunfight.
- How to structure your training and coaching to "program" success.
- The three M's of a comprehensive training program - and which two M's are often overlooked.
- Why your training program should be designed as a repetitive, increasingly difficult cycle.
- How you can magnify the effectiveness of Rapid Development tactics in your firearms training program.
- What you can do to anticipate and survive an ambush.
