Technology for Teachers!

WHAT'S THIS TRAINING ALL ABOUT?

Department's all over the nation have been forced to slash budgets. Unfortunately, training is often one of the first line items to go. As a result, we've created this powerful three day program to train department personnel how to supercharge their in-house training and create powerful, relevant, and defensible training with simple to use programs at no cost. Here you will learn all about creating powerful, objectives based training using PowerPoint and related programs as a delivery tool, making useful and effective training videos, integrating Microsoft Word, and utilizing powerful, free software programs to deliver your training and keep records to reduce your liability. At the end of the class, you will leave with your own functional training program to test out!

WHO'S THIS TRAINING FOR?

This training is for anyone in the Department who might benefit by learning how to design your own training. Whether you want to send training officers, supervisors, or support staff, we work with virtually anyone in an organization so you can learn how to do much more with your limited time and resources!

Instructional Technology was founded by Jim & Julie Gordon, with the sole purpose of providing great training so that departments around the nation could enhance their own training programs and keep their officers and staff safe. We pride ourselves on delivering a great product!
