Inside the Tape is a unique presentation unlike other training programs, because it has been developed over the years with input from law-enforcement agencies from all over the country. Our focus is the crime scene and recognition of indicators developed by victimology and evidence of interaction with the suspect. This not only aids agencies in identifying a potential motive, but also through victimology helps to establish those individuals in the victim's life who match that profile so that other crime scenes of value may be identified early on in the investigation. Inside the Tape has also developed what we define as solvability factors that aid in both cold cases and recent homicides to give the investigation more direction. Many agencies who take part in our training have implemented these factors with great success.
