Course Instructor

Joe Puckett has been training a wide variety of government, public safety and corporate personnel since 1991. He has attended instructor development training courses at the Federal and State level. Mr. Puckett has learned the art of instruction through years of work as an internal agency instructor, regional instructor and outside vendor instructor, as well as working with and observing some of the best public safety instructors in our nation. Mr. Puckett combines this with his interest in digital media, internet delivery methods and efficient presentations that can educate, improve people and their professions. He receives excellent ratings on his instruction from course attendees.
