

Join with us to welcome Chief Kathleen O'Toole

Chief O'Toole is a career police officer and lawyer who has earned an international reputation for her principled leadership and reform strategies.

In 2012, Ms. O'Toole completed a six-year term as Chief Inspector of the Garda Síochána Inspectorate, an oversight body responsible for bringing reform, best practice and accountability to the 17,000 member Irish national police service. Prior to serving in Ireland, Ms. O'Toole rose through the ranks of local and state policing in the United States. During her police career, she was assigned to numerous patrol, investigative, undercover, supervisory, and management positions. She served as Superintendent (Chief) of the Metropolitan District Commission Police and Lieutenant Colonel overseeing Special Operations in the Massachusetts State Police. She was later appointed Massachusetts Secretary of Public Safety (1994) and Boston Police Commissioner (2004).

The Chief will tell the story of her career in law enforcement and how she ended up in Seattle, as well as her plans for the future. The Chief will be introduced by Retired Justice Bobbe Bridge.

Men and women are encouraged to attend to learn more about succeeding and understanding the challenges faced by women in a male oriented environment. Graduates of the FBI National Academy will introduce you to the opportunities available to graduates.
