About the Class: Murders and violent crimes occur every day in the United States; they are reported on evening news programs and in Hollywood movies. All too often these crimes go unsolved or are not prosecuted. However, on occasion information is developed by law enforcement agencies regarding a person wanting to conduct a murder for hire. Once confronted with this situation law enforcement agencies are often caught off guard in two critical areas, investigative and logistically.

More critical is the fact that many law enforcement agencies do not have the experience or training to conduct murder for hire investigations in an undercover capacity. This training will provide a unique experience for law enforcement officers to see how murder for hire investigations are developed, evaluated for validity, and carried out. This process will demonstrate methods used to attack these crimes in both the undercover and investigative capacity. The training will include in-depth case reviews from initial inception to successful prosecution.

About the Speaker: Detective Ed Warner has been an officer with the Phoenix Police Department for 25 years 17 of which have been as a Detective assigned to tactical operations, undercover operations and investigative assignments with an emphasis on violent repeat offenders. His first detective assignment was as an undercover detective in the Phoenix Police Departments Police Departments Special Projects Unit, which specialized in the infiltration of individuals and groups of individuals trafficking in stolen property. It was during this assignment he was able to establish relationships with members of various street gangs, prison gangs, and criminal organizations. As a result of his investigations most of the suspects received extensive prison sentences. Detective Warner's is currently assignment to the Phoenix Police Departments Career Criminal Squad. Members of this unit are selected based on an exemplary record of previous undercover, investigative and tactical experience. Career Criminal is a hybrid special investigative unit. As a detective in this work unit, Detective Warner has successfully investigated a wide variety of violent crimes to include conspiracy to commit murder as both the investigator and as the ostensive "contract killer". Additionally, Detective Warner's investigative efforts have centered on both local and international outlaw motorcycle gangs (OMG), as well as investigations involving white supremacist and prison based gangs. Detective Warner has testified as an expert witness regarding outlaw motorcycle gangs in Maricopa County Superior Court.
