Four Aspects of Crisis Intervention Training For Law Enforcement Executives

The training will provide insight into:

- Crisis Intervention and Executive Leadership Styles: Styles, Power, Pitfalls and Ethics
- Evidence Based Crisis Intervention: Washington Legislation, Mandates and Funding
- Crisis Intervention and Surviving Peace: Interaction with combat veterans in crisis due to traumatic brain injury/PTSD
- Predictive Policing: Real world policing and the delivery of service to a segmented population of disordered people

Presenter background:

John Hutchings is an engaging and entertaining presenter drawing on 27 years with the Olympia Police Department and subsequently as the Tenino Police Chief. He received his B.A. at Evergreen State College, an M.A. in Organization Leadership from Chapman University and graduate certificates in organizational Development and Human Resources. John was a Fulbright Scholar and lived in England while researching the effects of Critical Incident Stress debriefing on police officers. He has presented in the UK and Australia as well as within the state of Washington. His audiences are first line officers, command staff, psychologists and psychiatrists. For the segment on combat veterans, he draws on the experiences of his son Michael Hutchings, a retired U.S. Army veteran of Operation Enduring Freedom,. Michael dealt with traumatic brain injury (TBI) and severe PTSD after surviving an IED blast in Iraq.
