

Terrorism Recognition, Awareness and Prevention Partnership

Sponsored by

Washington State Fusion Center

TRAPP TRAPP is a powerful four-hour training event that puts the power of knowledge and understanding behind the “see something, say something campaign.” Terrorist attacks are horrible, but too many times we discover they were also preventable. Suspicious Activity wasn’t recognized, and how too securely report it wasn’t understood, and pre-incident indicators were simply missed.

TRAPP is aimed at understanding terrorism, especially the pre-incident indicators of terrorist actions, as well as understanding the system in place for reporting, both to the fusion center and FBI. It’s building an appreciation of the threat, and how to leverage the system in place to stop it. It’s about stopping the next San Bernardino, Colorado Springs, Chattanooga, Charleston or Boston Marathon attack.
