

A TUITION-FREE training program for state, local, campus and tribal law enforcement.

The Department of Homeland Security, Federal Law Enforcement Training Center presents:

Threat Assessment & Management Training Seminar (TAMTS)

Co-Hosted by the Development, Training & Standards
Division Washington State Criminal Justice Commission

Location: Seattle, WA
Dates: June 7-9, 2011

Program Focus:

The TAMTS is a 3 day course, designed by the Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS), to provide an understanding of threatening communications investigations. Threat Assessments, as an applied technique, continue to develop and grow in the law enforcement community. Changes in legislation and lobbying efforts by victim advocates have placed an increasing awareness to the challenges of managing individuals who present threats at home, work and to the community.

This course will train the officer in identifying and analyzing threats, offer interview/interrogation strategies and help the investigator in his/her approach to threat cases. These techniques relate to threats of violence from terrorism, school violence, sexual crimes, stalking, cyber crimes (cyber stalking), domestic violence, arson, sabotage, communicated threats, insider threats, pre-attack behavior, unsolicited communications of threats and a myriad of other incidents.

Training Topics Include:

- Violence assessment (behavioral antecedents, indicators & patterns of escalation towards targeted violence);
- Evaluation of threatening, intimidating, and harassing statements/behaviors;
- Analysis of stalking behavior;
- Attention to domestic violence and workplace violence;
- Interview strategies for perpetrators and victims;
- Consultation with mental health professionals; and,
- Recommendations for interviews, collecting, and evaluation critical collateral data regarding the threats.

Who Should Attend: Applicants must be state, local, campus or tribal law enforcement officers or law enforcement support personnel.

Cost: TUITION-FREE (Attendees are responsible for all travel, lodging, and meal expenses.)

Registration and Program Information: Go to www.fletc.gov/osl, type "TAMTS" in the Search box at the top of the page or E-mail stateandlocaltraining@dhs.gov and put "TAMTS" in the subject line or call us at 800-743-5382.

We Take Pride in TRAINING AMERICA'S FINEST