Rules and dealing procedures

This game uses a six deck shoe only made up of standard 52 card decks

Texas 21 is blackjack with a Bonus Wager. The blackjack portion of the game may be dealt by any rules approved in the state of Washington.

The Bonus Wager works as follows. The minimum Wager is $1 the maximum may be set by the casino within state limits. Each casino may set their own aggregate limits as long as it complies with WSGC rules. The house may decide if they want to allow the player to wager more on the bonus wager than players are betting on the hand.

After dealing every player two cards and two cards to the house the house flips over their up card. Next the dealer will take the next four cards out of the shoe and place them face up to the right of dealers up card. The players first two blackjack cards of their blackjack hand and the dealers up card along with the 4 card flop make the players Texas 21 hand. Using those 7 cards the player makes their best five card hand. Starting from the dealers right (3rd base) all bets are paid or taken in turn according to the following pay tables. After reconciling all Bonus Wagers the blackjack portion of the game proceeds as normal. If no player is playing the bonus wager the dealer will skip the 4 card flop and proceed directly to the blackjack portion of the game.

The Texas 21 progressive jackpot is a Progressive Wager. Texas 21 may be played with or without the Texas 21 progressive jackpot. It may be run using any approved third party jackpot system or by simply placing a second drop box on the table to hold losing wagers. The progressive bet is always 1$. Unlike most progressive jackpots players who win will keep their original wager.

Before the hand starts players wishing to play the progressive place their Progressive Wager. After the flop the dealer will reconcile all wagers before proceeding to play the blackjack portion of the game. All winning progressive wagers except for Royal Flushes are paid from the tray. The seed money, $500 is included in the house edge. After being hit the jackpot is reseeded at $500.

In the event more than one person hit's a royal flush, or if there is a Royal Flush on the board. The jackpot will be shared evenly by all winning wagers. A player playing multiple hands will receive one share for each hand in play with a progressive wager. Players hitting a fixed payout will win that amount even if someone else hit's the top payout.
