This is a blackjack game with two bonus wagers . The Blackjack portion may be dealt by any rules approved by the WSGC, with the exception that the players first two cards must be dealt face up by rule. House edges listed below are based on a 6 deck shoe only. The game uses standard 52 card decks . For the bonus wagers the cards always rank as follows from lowest to highest 2-3-4-5-6-7-8-9-10-Jack-Queen-King-Ace The bonus wagers are Acey Duecey-21, featuring the Raise That Pays, and WAR . The game may have 6 or 7 player spots and may be ordered with both games or without the war bonus wagers.

WAR

The war bonus wager minimum may be set by the house . The house may set any maximum within WSGC rules. First the player places the optional WAR bonus wager and receives both of their cards . If their first card is higher than the dealers up card they win. If it is lower than the dealers up car they lose. If their first card is the same the as the house then the players second card will be used. If the players second card is higher than the house up card they win . If it is the same or a lower they lose. House edge 0.5248%

Pay table 2 for war On this pay table if the players first card is the same as the dealers up card they lose  $\frac{1}{2}$  their bet . House edge for this pay table is 3.69%

ACEY DEUCEY

The Acey Duecey bonus wager is a 1$ minimum the max may be set by the house within WSGC limits provided that.

If the original bet is already the maximum bet allowed by WSGC rule the raise that pays may only be equal or less than the Acey Duecey Ante but not more. If the house chooses a max bonus wagers less than the maximum bet allowed by WSGC. They must let the player Raise up to double the Acey Duecey Ante Provided said raise does not exceed WSGC limits. This bonus wager has two parts based on the same outcome. Before any cards are dealt the player places an Optional Acey Duecey Ante then all players are dealt their first two cards face up the house takes their first card only and leaves it face down. After looking at their first two cards the players have the option to raise their Acey Duecey Ante from 1$ up to twice the original bet amount. This is called the Raise That Pays . After all players have Checked or raised the dealer brings out the house second card and exposes the house up card. If the house up card ranks between the players two cards they win. Example : Player has King -7 the house has an 8, player wins.

Player has a Queen-2 ,the house has a Queen player loses. The Queen is not between the Queen and the 2 If the player has connected cards, like 7-8 they lose.

If the player has a pair they will win if they make 3 of a kind ,but push if they don't make 3 of a kind. Any player receiving a pair in their first 2 cards is free rolling and cannot lose. They will most likely always raise the maximum 2 times the original bet, unless using any of the following pay tables pay tables. 1B 2B 3B on these pay tables a player may not raise their bet if they have a pair. Winning hands with 3 suited cards pays more . Both the Acey Duecey Ante and the Raise That Pays, except as mentioned above on pay tables 1B 2B & 3B pay the listed odds .The spread means cards between the players cards a player hand of 5-7 would have a spread of 1( the 6).
